

Pauline Boty And The Representation of Women

Erin Shawe

Pauline Boty, Colour Her Gone, 1962.

Pauline Boty, With Love to Jean-Paul Belmondo, 1962.

Pauline Boty photographed by Lewis Morley, 1963.

Pauline Boty posing with Scandal '63, 1963.
Photograph by Michael Ward.

Pauline Boty, It's A Man's World II, 1965.

Bibliography

Livingstone, M (1990). Pop Art: A Continuing History. 4th Edition. London: Thames & Hudson.

Kunstverein In Hamburg (1976). Pop Art In England. Braunschweig: Waisenhaus-Buchdruckerei und Verlag.

Mullins, C (2019). A Little Feminist History of Art. 2nd Edition. London: Tate Publishing.

Pringle, R.W (2023). Profumo Affair. Encyclopedia Britannica. Available at: <https://www.britannica.com/event/Profumo-affair>. [Accessed 12 Apr 2023].

Reckitt, H and Phelan, P (2001). Art and Feminism. 5th Edition. London: Phaidon Press Limited.

Sundholm, A (2020). Week 1 – Marilyn Monroe and Sexuality. Available at: <https://blogs.uoregon.edu/cine345starsmidterm/2020/11/01/week-1-marilyn-monroe/>. [Accessed 22 Apr 2023].

Tate, S (2013). Pauline Boty: Pop Artist and Woman. 2nd Edition. Wolverhampton: Wolverhampton Art Gallery.