

Sarah McDonald
Make (3DCreative Practice)
Contextual Studies

Textile Designer: Cath Kidson

Cath Kidson creates designs that are child-like, homely and adorable. These designs are then used to develop packaging for products such as creams and lip balm... Cath also has a line of fashion and homeware such as clothing, accessories and bedding, etc.

Cath Kidson is my favourite textile designer as her artwork automatically makes me want to own her products and her designs are tied directly to her, one look and I can tell that it is one of her creations. Her style of art is consistent resulting in her being noticed and recognised.

Ceramics: Anna Whitehouse

Anna Whitehouse creates delicate, intricate, textured, beautiful ceramic pieces and I am in awe of her talent. She is a skilled artist to be able to work with clay in the way that she does to create smooth and defined shapes and details. With the colours of her ceramic designs, it allows the detailing to be the main focus. She has found a balance that works wonderfully, enough detail to leave people in awe but not too much that it stops being delicate. Her creations are timeless and breathtaking.

Fashion Designer: Vivienne Westwood

Vivienne Westwood creates designs that are mostly eccentric and statement pieces. Her designs are edgy, scandalous and androgynous. Her clothing line consists of patterns that are eye catching, grunge and impactful. She is a well respected fashion designer and is held in high regard in the industry. Her clothing is seen worn by A-list celebrities on the red carpet, at events and on their “off- duty” looks. When I see her clothing worn by celebrities or at her fashion shows, I am struck by her designs. They are very creative and innovative.

Textile Artist: Anni Albers

Anni Albers works with grid formations mostly in her work and uses complementary colours to create her soft designs. Looking through her designs, Anni seems to be a safe artist. She has found her style and knows what works for her. Her designs are pleasant and consistent. The photo that I have used as an example for her work stuck out to me as it was different to her other work. This is very experimental in comparison to others. The face stands out but also works beautifully with the chosen colours for the background. After creating a weave design myself and using embroidering for the first time in this segment, I have a lot of respect for her through this design as it is simplicit but also incredibly smart and challenging to pull off.