Did the introduction / outline for the workshop provide a clear idea of what to aim for?

Each workshop and task had a clear layout and brief to work from, which gave myself a better insight of what I was aiming for.

Was there enough direction / feedback provided?

There were indications of each workshop, in certain areas I was shown step by step instructions as a guide for each project. Feedback was provided, as the lecturers gave advice on how to improve.

Was I aware that I could seek out and ask for advice if I required it?

Yes, I felt confident enough to speak out and ask for help/advice from my lecturers in each workshop.

Which workshop did I enjoy the most?

The workshops I've enjoyed the most were the Digital Drawing, and the 3D drawing workshops. I found this workshop very interesting as this was a new experience for me, especially finding new techniques and perspectives to create artwork.

Which workshop did I least enjoy?

The workshop I least enjoyed was the Life drawing. Although I felt that this workshop wasn't for me it was a very interesting experience.

In hindsight, were there aspects of the workshop that I could have handled better / improved upon? (Give examples)

Personally, I think that I could've improved on creating extra studies or expanding my knowledge on different medias.

Any other comments / reflections :

I think that having different experiences with each workshop has given myself a clear idea of what my strengths and weaknesses are. These workshops have been very beneficial as it gives a better insight of finding your interest's, style, media etc. The workshops that I have enjoyed so far, could be something I'd like to continue on throughout my studies.
