Dear Ms McCann,

My name is Caoimhe Greene and I am a second year student studying interaction design at Ulster University Belfast and I am currently looking for a placement role. I have decided to apply for the ux role at ESO as I have been greatly inspired by the work you do and the mission statement that the company thrives on. 'Make a Difference' has really influenced my choice to apply and when I discovered that this is what your company lives and breathes I took an immediate attraction.

I feel as though I would be a fantastic fit for your design team as I am a very emphatic and compassionate person through my many years of volunteer work. I have always wanted a role where I have the ability to help people as well as explore my creative and problem solving side. I have strong skills in the process of design, including strong user research skills as well as the sketching, prototyping and wireframing. I have a strong passion for creative human centred design that is for everyone from all backgrounds and situations, this idea and belief is highlighted strongly within the work that your design team have done and what ESO stands for overall. This role and the company really excites me and I feel as though I would be the perfect fit for this team and company.
